

K. Michelle AmRhein, J.D., C.P.A.

Attorney At Law

K. Michelle AmRhein's legal practice focuses on estate and trust planning, business succession planning, probate administration and advising individuals and entities on complex business and tax matters, including executive and equity compensation arrangements. She has been advising business entities and individuals in Northern Colorado and Arizona for over 20 years.

Mrs. AmRhein's extensive experience in tax, business and estate planning work makes her an exceptional lawyer to represent client matters involving estate and business succession planning, tax planning and probate and trust administration. She has served as Director of Tax for a multi-state, real estate development company where she advised on the tax implications of proposed transactions, strategies and deals. Mrs. AmRhein's experience also includes private practice in a law firm focusing on estate planning, probate and business law in Arizona. She is also a former instructor of business law and legal environment at the University of Colorado and Yavapai County Community College.

Mrs. AmRhein received her law degree from the University of Colorado and holds bachelor's degrees in Accounting and English Literature. She is licensed to practice law in both Colorado and Arizona. She is also licensed as a certified public accountant (CPA) in Colorado.

Prior to attending law school where she specialized in probate administration and estate, trust and business planning, she worked as a CPA in the tax department of Ernst & Young. Mrs. AmRhein has served on a variety of professional committees, held various leadership roles and speaks on a regular basis to professional and community organizations.

Mrs. AmRhein is located in the firm's Fort Collins office and represents clients across all of Northern Colorado. She currently lives in Fort Collins, Colorado with her husband, Fred, their two children, Nicholas and Natalie whom she enjoys spending her free time with.
