

Privacy Policy for Coan, Payton & Payne, LLC

This privacy policy (“Privacy Policy”) applies to information collected online from users of this website of Coan, Payton & Payne, LLC (hereinafter, the “Firm”). The information in this Privacy Policy is to inform you what type of information we collect, when and how we may use that information, how we protect the information, and the choices you have with respect to your personal information. This Privacy Policy expressly does not apply to information provided to us in the course of our attorney-client relationships or protected by confidentiality, the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine or any other applicable protection. Nothing in this Privacy Policy should be construed to create an attorney-client relationship with visitors to our website or, conversely, to detract from any of the protections resulting from such relationships. The content on the Firm’s website is provided for informational purposes only and not intended to be considered to be legal advice. By accessing or using this website, you are agreeing to the terms of this Privacy Policy. If you do not agree to the collection, use and disclosure of your personal information as set forth in this Privacy Policy, you may not use this Site.

Collection and use of Personal Information

The Firm does not collect any personal data from visitors to its website that is not voluntarily provided including but not limited to names, mailing addresses, email addresses and telephone numbers (hereinafter, “Personal Information”). If you do provide Personal Information to the Firm, we may use that Personal Information to:

provide you with legal services, if you are or become a client of the Firm, and/or deal with any requests or inquiries you may have;

carry out, monitor and analyze our business or website operations;

contact you (unless you specifically state for us not to) regarding events and legal developments that may be of interest to you;

such other uses as the Firm and you may agree to from time to time.

The Firm does not sell or share your Personal Information with third party companies for their direct marketing purposes without your consent.

Confidentiality of Client Information

Consistent with our professional obligations, it is the policy of the Firm to exercise the utmost discretion regarding the information our clients entrust to us. The Firm accepts and processes client information always subject to the client’s direction and control, as well as, maintains reasonable and appropriate, although not infallible, security precautions.

Third-party Services

We may use services hosted by third parties to help us understand the use of our site by our visitors. These services may collect information sent by your web browser as part of a web page request, including your IP address, search terms, log files, clicked links and/or cookies. If these third-party services collect information, they do so anonymously and in the aggregate to provide information helpful to us such as website trends, without identifying individual visitors. Please keep in mind that we do not share your Personal Information with any third-party advertiser, ad server or ad network.

Do Not Track Signals

“Do Not Track” signals are options available on your browser to tell operators of websites that you do not wish to have your online activity tracked. With the exception of information that is entered voluntarily into our website, we do not acquire Personal Information and therefore our website operates no differently if these “Do Not Track” signals are enabled or disabled. Our website does not allow any other parties to collect Personal Information about your online activities over time or across websites.

User-supplied Information on “contact us” Form

If you decide to fill out our “contact us” form located on this website, we will ask you to provide certain Personal Information (such as email address, name, phone number and your state). Please do not submit any confidential or sensitive personally identifiable information such as Social Security Number, bank account or other financial information. If you submit any such information, you do so at your own risk.

Information that you provide to us through the contact form will be used so that we may respond to your inquiry.

We may also use information you provide to us to communicate with you in the future regarding publications, events and other information that we consider may be of interest to you. If you do not wish to receive such communications, you may opt out (unsubscribe) by sending an email to marketing@cp2law.com

Contacting Us about this Privacy Policy

For any questions, comments or inquiries regarding the collection, processing, storage, correction or deletion of your personal information by the Firm, please contact us via the phone number, contact form or mailing address on our website at any time.

Changes

We reserve the right to change this Privacy Policy at any time without advance notice. Should any new Privacy Policy go into effect, the Firm will post it on this website.

Effective Date: June 21, 2016
